15- Research Interest & Philosophy

The research philosophy based on the addition to knowledge in my work field. The most important result of research in the field of law is the achievement of justice among people. This leads to a sense of equality and a feeling of justice.

I have been published research articles in international journals indexed in SCOPUS such as Arab Law Quarterly, Information & Communications Technology Law, Global Jurist, Issues in Legal Scholarship, Journal of Financial Regulation and Compliance and Al-Jāmi'ah: Journal of Islamic Studies. I am looking forward to publishing more articles in other international journals index in SCOPUS, so I have research articles (under review) in other international journals such as Issues in Legal Scholarship, Criminal Law Forum and journal of Energy and Natural Resources Law. In addition, I published research articles in Arab peer reviewed journal, such as journals of Cairo University, Ain Shams University, Alexandria University, Al Azhar University, and The Islamic University.

I got the research fellow award in the university level for the academic year 2018 (It is awarded to the best researchers in university level), also the research award in the university level for the academic year 2017, and the research awards in the college level for the academic years 2016 and 2017.

I have been participated in many local and international scientific conferences, as mentioned in my resume. Furthermore, I have many textbooks in my field published in United Arab Emirates and Palestine. Of course, one of my research interests is to get Grants by submitting proposals for the concerned entities. Therefore, I got six grants during the last years from the office of research in Abu Dhabi University (65000 AED). I also contribute to scientific research by working as a reviewer for many research articles, books and membership of the editorial boards of several journals.

Cooperation in scientific research is an important pillar to be adopted by the researcher, as this will maintain high quality, in addition to increasing scientific productivity. This creates the need for communication between specialists in different sciences, which leads to high impact on distinctive outcomes and recommendations.

Finally, yet importantly, the scientific research requires the continuous follow-up of existing literature, the attempt to create a qualitative addition, and to address the emerging issues of the technological development of societies.

16- Teaching Philosophy

The teaching philosophy based on promoting the idea of teaching and learning, by giving the opportunity to the students to participate in the classroom to express their opinions. The method of indoctrination in teaching is no longer correct but must follow by the method of learning. This will create new feeling for the student to move to a new stage in his life, which is different from the school stage.

This can achieve by following a flipped classroom policy, which provides the greatest opportunity for students to participate in the classroom and promotes self-confidence. The teaching of law courses is very similar to practical reality. It deals with real issues of interest to the student, which leads to attracting attention in the classroom and makes him eager to know the legal information. In order to achieve this, I follow the method of mock trial in the classroom by representing realistic issues, in addition to PowerPoint presentation.

In addition, the philosophy in teaching depends on participation in the student's academic advising and awareness of the courses he/she must pass in order to complete his/her study without any problems. This is achieved through the student's satisfaction in dealing with the professor, which leads to success. The educational process depends on the presence of relationship between the professor and the student, which allows him/her to overcome all the difficulties, while retaining certain limits to maintain the teaching process.

The teaching required the strengthen on the student's feeling of the importance of the information obtained in the classroom. This requires work from the professor by clarifying how the information contributes to the student's success in his/ her career. It is one of the professor's job to clarify and convince the student of the importance of the science he/she study, in order to have a desire for acquiring practical achievement.

Finally, yet importantly, the teaching process contains of several axes, so that the professor must combine them, and the neglect of any axis leads to a defect in the teaching process affects the quality required.
