Personal Information

Born on 3 December, 1957. Father of two sons and two daughters and grandfather of six children. Healthy. Hobbies: gardening and swimming. Travel on a New Zealand passport.

Education

PhD (Computational Linguistics) - 1994

Auckland University, Auckland, New Zealand

Developed four computer programs for the analysis of simultaneous interpretation: one allows a global signal analysis based on correlation and covariance, another allows content-based discourse analysis, and two allow a speech-events-centered analysis differing only in the degree of human intervention.

Diploma (Computer Studies) - 1988

Auckland Institute of Technology, Auckland, New Zealand

Studied computer operating systems and computer programming.

MA (Linguistics) - 1982

University of Kansas, Lawrence, KS, U.S.A.

Did the coursework for two majors, Theoretical Linguistics and Teaching English as a Second Language, and wrote the thesis on the article systems in English and Arabic, using Error Analysis.

BA (English) - 1978

University of Jordan, Amman, Jordan

Obtained distinction.

Professional Experience

Workshops

Some workshops I led for a fee:

- 4D Global's Interactive Learning Solutions Workshop, Altamonte Springs, Florida, 22nd – 30th January, 2010.
- Luminus' Technical Translation Workshop for the Petroleum Industry, 29th June – 4th July, 2013.
- Luminus Education's Computer-Assisted Technical Translation Workshop for the Petroleum Industry, 24th – 29th August, 2013.

Certification

IELTS Certified Examiner (Dec. 2011 - 2015)

Community Work

- English Curriculum Review Committee, Ministry of Education, 2007-2015.
- Arabic Proficiency Examination Technical Committee, Arabic Language Academy, 2011-2016
- Higher Education Accreditation Commission, 2014-2016.
- Steering Committee, The Power to Connect Conference, 2014.
- Editorial Board Member, Dirasat: Human and Social Sciences, 2012-2014
- DAAD Screening Committee, 2010.
- Editorial Committee Member, New Horizons in Discourse, 2007.

Teaching

Professor (2007 - Now)

Jordan University, Amman, Jordan

Teaching M.A. and Ph.D. courses in Computational Morphology and Lexicography, Science Translation, Technical Translation, Computer-Assisted Translation, Research Methods, and Semantics. Teaching undergraduate courses in EFL, language skills, ESP, and Computer-Assisted Language Learning. Supervised theses on computational lexicography, corpus linguistics, collocation, morpho-semantics, and several topics in natural language processing. Chaired and participated in accreditation committees for the appraisal and restructuring of several academic programs at a regional level. Served on the editorial boards of numerous textbooks and journals. Organized several conferences and edited their proceedings.

Professor (June, 2016-Now)

Department of English Language and Literature

Teaching doctoral and master's students of linguistics and translation these courses: Lexical Cognitive Semantics, Morphology, Computational Linguistics, Corpus Linguistics, Scientific and Technical Translation, and Research Methods in Translation. Supervising Master's and Ph.D. theses in Linguistics, Translation, and Computer Science.

Professor on Secondment, Department of Languages and Translation, University of Tabuk, Saudi Arabia (Sep. 2015 - June. 2016)

Taught English language skill and translation courses at a B.A. level. Developed, in cooperation, the study plan for a Master's degree in Applied Linguistics. Contributed to efforts for gaining national recognition by the Saudi National Commission for Academic Accreditation & Assessment (SNCAA) and international recognition by the United States' Commission on English Language Program Accreditation (CEA). Setup two language and translation laboratories and wrote operation procedures for them in a CALL and CAT context. Established a reading club and wrote the procedures for optimal foreign language learning reinforcement.

Dean, Faculty of Foreign Languages (Sep. 2014 - Sep. 2015)

Administered a faculty of 3500 student population and 115 staff members in five departments: English, French, European Languages, Asian Languages, and Linguistics. The Faculty offers 10 degree programs at undergraduate level: English Literature, Applied English, French, Spanish, Italian, German, Korean, Chinese, Russian, and Turkish; five Master's degree programs: English Literature, Linguistics, English-Arabic Translation, French-Arabic Translation, and Language, Culture, and Communication; and two Ph.D. programs: English Literature, and Linguistics.

Professor (28/5/2012)

Department of Linguistics & Department of English

Taught undergraduate and postgraduate courses in Linguistics, Translation, and English language skills. Headed the Department of Linguistics since August 2011. Established a translation lab. Participated in formulating the College Five-Year

Strategy Plan. Prepared accreditation portfolios for our B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. programs. Designed, in collaboration, the study plan for our novel Master's degree in Language, Culture, and Communication, and obtained full accreditation for it. Implemented Soliya's intercultural video-conferencing Connect Program in the study plan of the B.A. in Applied English.

Chairman, Department of Linguistics (2011-2014)

Managed a department of 12 faculty members that offers one B.A. program in Applied English and one M.A. in Language, Culture, and Communication in collaboration with the Swedish Open Mind Academy.

Chairman, Department of Asian Languages (2009-2011)

Managed a department that offered four B.A. degree programs (Korean, Chinese, Turkish, and Russian) and offered non-degree courses in Japanese, Urdu, Persian, and Hebrew. Obtained accreditation for the four degree programs during my tenure. Obtained funding for the establishment of a Chinese language laboratory, a Chinese cultural corner, and a Russian hall that housed both a cultural corner and a language laboratory.

Assistant Dean for International Relations and Joint Programs (2008-2009)

Managed all matters relating to the college relations with other colleges around the world. Organized several memoranda of understanding with universities in the U.S.A., Korea, China, Turkey, and Poland. Facilitated faculty and student exchange. Promoted joint degree programs at the college.

Assistant Dean for Accreditation, Quality Assurance, and Development (2007-2008)

Promoted quality assurance at the college and advised the college on principles, policies, and procedures relating to the quality assurance of teaching, learning, and assessment. Initiated policies and procedures for accreditation purposes.

Associate Professor (2004 – Jan 2007)
University of Sharjah, Sharjah, U.A.E.

Same teaching duties as while Assistant Professor, but with more administrative responsibilities.

Assistant Professor (2000 – 2003)
University of Sharjah, Sharjah, U.A.E.

Taught the English language skills, Computer-Assisted Language Learning, Linguistics, and Translation. Established two multimedia CALL labs and a simultaneous interpretation lab. Developed the curricula for several courses including some postgraduate translation courses. Developed in collaboration with others a computerized test of English language skills, and developed in collaboration with others a computerized Arabic aptitude test for native speakers of Arabic. Conducted numerous workshops for training staff members on CALL. With the help of other colleagues, we gained for the English program accreditation by the UAE's COMMISSION FOR ACADEMIC ACCREDITATION.

Assistant Professor (2000)
Sultan Qaboos University, Muscat, Oman

Same teaching duties as while Lecturer, but with more administrative responsibilities.

Lecturer (1996 – 1999)
Sultan Qaboos University, Muscat, Oman

Taught the English language skills, Computer-Assisted Language Learning, Computational Linguistics, and Translation. Designed and developed the curricula for the courses in Computational Linguistics and CALL. Produced in collaboration with others four CALL software: Bilingual Reader, Lexicon, Concordancer, and Dictionary Maker. Obtained a grant worth approximately AED 190,000 for establishing the nucleus of an electronic library, the proposal of which has been successfully screened by international referees.

Conducted several workshops on HTML-Formatting, Internet Search Strategies, and Computer-Assisted Language Learning software, and gave several seminars on Machine Translation, Internet Abuse, Patterns of Internet Use at SQU, etc. Supervised the graduation projects for two Computer Science Department students.

Assistant Professor (1995 – 1996)
IUM, Petaling Jaya, Selangor, Malaysia

Taught ESL, Computer-Assisted Language Learning, Reporting and Writing for the Mass Media, Writing for Public Relations, Mass Communication, and Reading for Economists. Produced the WebPages for the Department of Communication and the Center for English Language and Pre-University Academic Development.

Researcher (1991 – 1994)
Auckland University, Auckland, New Zealand

Worked on developing speech signal analysis programs for Macintosh computers.

Lecturer (1989 – 1991)
Umm Al-Qura University, Taif, Saudi Arabia

Taught most of the courses offered in Linguistics, Translation, and ESL. Designed and developed the syllabi for all the new courses in Translation. Supervised graduating students in their teacher training at high school.

Lecturer (1988 – 1989)
Auckland University, Auckland, New Zealand

Taught Translation Theory to M.A. and B.A. students of Linguistics.

Language Instructor (1983 – 1987)
Umm Al-Qura University, Taif, Saudi Arabia

Taught Introduction to Linguistics I, II; Translation I, II; Psycholinguistics, Contrastive Linguistics, Morphology, Semantics, and TESL Practicum to senior and junior-level students, and ESL courses (English Grammar, Reading, Writing, and Listening and Speaking) to sophomore and freshman-level students. Supervised graduating students in their teacher training at high schools.

Assistant Instructor (1979 – 1983)
University of Kansas, Lawrence, KS, U.S.A.

Taught and was in charge of four semester courses of Arabic as a Foreign Language, developed the course syllabi and instructional material, and designed the language laboratory audio material. Assisted professors in teaching Linguistics to undergraduate students.

Marketing Consultant (1982 – 1983)
GEM Solvents, Inc., Council Grove, KS, U.S.A.

Developed strategies for marketing chemical products in the Middle East. Traveled in this region to promote products, negotiate contracts, and establish dealerships.

Translator and Student Assistant (1981 – 1982)
Heliflight Systems Inc., Topeka, KS, U.S.A.

Worked as an interpreter. Compiled "The Aviation Technical Glossary" in the form of an English/Arabic dictionary. Translated "The Standard Operating Procedures" in addition to the primary task of translating lesson guides. Advised foreign students and assisted them in adjusting to the American culture.

Certified Translator and Interpreter (1980 – 1982)
Yaghi Translation Service, Lawrence, KS, U.S.A.

Translated commercial brochures, advertisements, films, and other promotion material. Practiced consecutive and simultaneous interpretation on a small scale in business conferences.

Circulation Assistant (1978 – 1979)
University of Kansas, Lawrence, KS, U.S.A.

Handled various technical librarian tasks that related to book classification, call numbers, and labels.
