2. Teaching Methods, Developing Academic Courses and the Management of Teaching Process

1- Teaching Strategies

- Teaching strategies vary depending on different varies. I sometimes depend on lecture
- Role-play strategy is also implemented during teaching.
- Mini Workshop strategy is also implemented.
- Presentation is also taken into account as an effective way allowing to integrate students into the process of teaching and supporting their participation.
- Writing assignments and writing reports are also taken into account.
- Pushing students towards being a part of teaching process and allowing them to create new ideas, brain storming to deduce new ideas.
- Using co-operative learning technique along with subjective learning as applied to new technology.

2-Using Technology in Teaching:

- One of the main technological tools that are used frequently on the lecturer class is data show using different programs such as power point, prezi application and PDF. In addition, during the lecturer, I do log in using internet webs to help students to watch and understand more details about the specific issue we are addressing in accordance to the subject and the topics included.
- Helping students particularly MA students to write their references applying APA as a universal and worldwide accepted style to document references.
- Designing number of electronic courses through applying E- Learning using Moodle software as indicated earlier.
